

Independently trained layers compose under a fitted rotation — but only when the models differ by initialisation

